PREFACE.

In introducing this work to the public, the author fears it will appear presumptuous, as several of the same character are already in existence which claim attention from their superior merit; still he indulges a hope that the present may not prove altogether uninteresting, when it is found to contain a list of BRASSES considerably greater in number than any of its predecessors. Learning from the reports of the various Architectural Societies that these interesting memorials were rapidly decreasing in number, it occured to him that a more extended list might be acceptable. It has been carefully collected from the following works:—Cotman's Norfolk and Suffolk Brasses, Boutell's Monumental Brasses of England, The Oxford Manual, Manning's List, The Cambridge Camden Society's and Messrs. Waller's Brasses, Hudson's Sepulchral Brasses of Northamptonshire, Stothard's Effigies, Gough's and Hartshorne's Sepulchral Monuments, Hollis's Monumental Effigies, The Gentleman's Magazine, Notes and Queries, The Archæological and the various Architectural Societies' Reports, and the following Topographical works—Nicholls' Leicestershire, Lyson's Magna Britannia, Blore's Rutland, Bridge's and Baker's Northamptonshire, Allen's Lincolnshire, Lipscomb's Bucks, Brander's Parish Churches, Fisher's Bedfordshire Collections, Clutterbuck's Herts, Registrum Roffense, Moule's English Counties, Thoroton's Notts, Hoare's Wilts, Poulson's Holderness, Whittaker's Richmondshire, &c., &c. &c. To the following gentlemen the author's best thanks are due, for the valuable assistance they have rendered in the way of suggestions and by the loan of books—Rev. H. J. Bigge, Rockingham; Rev. E. Trollope, Leasingham; Rev. T. James, Theddingworth; Rev. W. J. Jenkins, Fillingham; Rev. A. B. Hutchinson, Devonport; Edw. Pretty, Esq., Northampton; Jos. Phillips, Jun., Esq., Stamford; Mr. H. Boor, Stamford; Mr. S. Weddell, Stamford, &c. &c.
